Meerkats are omnivores – they eat fruits and vegetables as well as animals. Unlike humans, they have no excess body fat and therefore, searching for food is a constant activity. Their diet mostly consists of insects, which they sniff out using their acute sense of smell. They also eat small rodents, fruit, birds, eggs, lizards, scorpions as well as snakes.

Despite living in the desert, meerkats do not need extra water in their diet. They get all the moisture they need from the insects and grubs they eat.

Comprehension Open-ended

Read the passage below and answer questions 39 to 43. Your answers must be based on the passage.

Every day, Grumpy Goblin dug for precious stones at a mine in the forest to add to his huge collection. However, the more he collected, the grumpier he became. Nothing was ever right for him. Worried that someone might steal his treasure, he never invited anyone to his house.

In a nearby forest lived a fairy who was always happy. She was never bored as the animals and trees all around were her friends. 5

One day, the goblin had a misfortune. He was pushing his cart full of precious stones out of the mine when all of a sudden, a crow swooped down, grabbed a brilliant ruby and flew off. The goblin was furious. He ran after the thief, yelling, "Come back, you fool!" Grumpy Goblin ran for such a long time 10 that he ended up in the forest where he nearly collided with the fairy.

"Hello!" greeted the fairy. "Where are you from?"

"None of your business!" said the goblin in his grumpiest voice.

"You look upset. Would you like some fruits and a drink?"

"I don't want anything but my ruby back!" 15

Fairy handed the goblin a cup of dew and some berries anyway. As he was thirsty, he drank the cool dew and ate a few berries. Fairy began to sing.

"Would you like to dance with me?" she asked. Without waiting for an answer, she held Grumpy Goblin's hand and together, they flew up into the sky, twirling high above the trees. The more fun the goblin had, the less grumpy he felt. 20

Then, out of nowhere, the crow appeared. It hopped over to the fairy and presented her the red stone. "Oh! That's so sweet of you!" said the fairy. "You remembered my birthday!"

"But...that's MY ruby!" shouted the goblin.

The fairy looked at the goblin in astonishment and despair. "You shouldn't get so angry about a little stone," she said and held out the stone to the goblin who snatched it angrily from her. 25

Fairy then turned her back on him and walked away sadly. "That stone belongs to me," he muttered. He wanted to believe that but deep down inside him, he was cross with himself. He had ruined everything. All the precious stones in the world were not as valuable as friendship. So, he went back to find the fairy to salvage the situation. 30

Ever since, the animals could hear the goblin singing merrily in the mountains.
